THE SIRIUS MINE PROJECT

Matt Parsons

An aerial photograph of a large-scale construction site for the Sirius Mining North Yorkshire Polyhalite Project. The site is filled with various pieces of heavy machinery, including excavators and trucks, and several large concrete structures under construction. A winding road cuts through the site, and the surrounding landscape is a mix of green fields and cleared land. The sky is clear and blue.

Will talk about the Sirius Mining North Yorkshire Polyhalite Project constructing the Woodsmith Mine and the tunnel to transport the mined product to Wilton International

He will also summarise their activities in the community in supporting social and economic benefit
